

Privacy Policy

PFP, Inc. thanks you for visiting its website. Because we are committed to respecting the privacy of our website visitors, this website privacy policy statement and safeguarding describes the information we collect from you during your visit to our site, how we may use it, and how we will protect the information which you may opt to provide.

Personally Identifiable Information

Personally identifiable information includes your name, address, zip code and telephone number, e-mail address or any other information which might reasonably be used to identify you individually. PFP collects personally identifiable information from website visitors only when it is voluntarily provided. PFP will not otherwise collect this information from you on our website. PFP offers the option of making tax deductible contributions with a credit card and will collect the information needed to make such transactions. At those portions of our Web site where we provide you with the option to input personally identifiable information, we notify you of the uses we intend to make of that information in any given instance. When PFP receives personally identifiable information we may use it for reasonable purposes. For example we may use this information to contact you, via e-mail or regular mail, to provide you with information we believe may be of interest. It may also be used for compiling data and analyses to understand and serve your needs. Data is also compiled to evaluate the use and utility of the services we provide on line. Personally identifiable information will not be sold, rented or exchanged outside of PFP unless the user is first notified and expressly consents to such transfer.

Collective/Aggregate Data

PFP's website may also collect information from you that is not personally identifiable. For example, we might track information about the date and time visitors access our site, the type of web browser they used, and the websites from which they connected to our site. Our website collects this information by depositing certain bits of information called "cookies" in a visitor's computer. This technology does not collect an individual visitor's personally identifiable information, rather this information is collected in an aggregate form. The "cookies" can tell us how and when pages in a website were visited and by how many people. This aggregate information will enable us to improve our website to serve and inform you better. It also may allow you to shortcut accesses to point of interest on our website when you reenter our system. Attaching this device to your system has no effect on how it performs.

Use of Communications Forums

The PFP and related websites have, will, or may contain threaded discussions, chat rooms, list servers and other communications forums. By participating in any of these, users agree to send and receive messages that are both proper and related to the forum topic. The following actions are unacceptable practices: Defaming, harassing, threatening, or otherwise violating the legal rights of others, including their privacy. Misrepresenting one's person, background, or character; Posting any defamatory, infringing, obscene, false, or unlawful material; Selling, advertising, or exchanging any goods or services unless expressly allowed; Posting any copyrighted material owned by a third parties. PFP, Inc. may alter or remove any messages or postings to our site which we deem inappropriate or offensive. Also, you agree to use the PFP website at your own risk. While championing the proper use of such forums, The PFP, Inc. cannot guarantee that violations of the above code will not occur.

Links To Other Sites

As a resource to our visitors PFP may provide links to other websites. We try to carefully choose websites which we believe are useful and meet our high standards for the accuracy and utility of information. However, because website design and content can change so quickly we cannot guarantee the standards of every website to which we link. Likewise, we are not responsible for the content of any non-PFP site. We also cannot guarantee the privacy policies of these other sites and suggest you check the privacy policies of those sites directly.

Choice

If you wish to stop receiving any e-mail or other communications from PFP, which might be sent to you in the future based on your request for this information, or if you have submitted personally identifiable information through a PFP website and would like to have that information deleted, please notify us and it will be done promptly.

Accuracy

PFP will make every effort to maintain the accuracy and confidentiality of any personal information you supply to us. If you wish to make additions or other corrections to the information you have sent in please transmit it to the PFP, Inc.'s data processing department.

Security

All information transmitted to this PFP Web site is secure to the extent possible using existing technology. Unauthorized third parties should not be able to access it during transmission. We will store the information that you share with us securely and will take appropriate steps to protect it from unauthorized access or disclosure. While no security steps can offer 100 percent protection we utilize state-of-the-art technology and systems to prevent unauthorized access to the information we hold. We will limit access to this information to those PFP personnel with a need to know. We educate our staff about their duty to protect your privacy and provide training regarding the policy described herein.

Changes

Any changes to this privacy policy will be communicated promptly at this location. Please check our privacy page periodically to review any changes that may have been made.

Thank you for visiting the PFP Web site. We value your interest and ideas. If you have any comments or concerns regarding the use of information provided by PFP via an Internet site please contact us.